Hiring a decorator in Jersey

Painting rarely needs permission

You never need building bye-law permission to paint, and painting is usually allowed without planning permission under the General Development Order. The main exception is a listed building: painting a part that has never been painted needs permission. If you want to change the colour of a listed building, ask the Government's historic environment team first.

The Order also limits painting that would change the look of a conservation area, but the Government of Jersey is still working on designating them, starting with St Aubin.

Scaffolding for outside work

Scaffolding on a public road needs a road works permit from the Government or the parish, depending on who owns the road, and in St Helier only approved scaffolding contractors can get one. Ask your decorator who is arranging it.

Textured ceilings in older homes

A home built before 2000 could contain asbestos, and textured coatings such as Artex are among the materials it can be found in. Have a textured ceiling or wall checked before anyone sands, scrapes or removes it.

No approved-decorator scheme

Jersey has no official register of decorators. The Jersey Construction Council takes members from every trade, but membership isn't a quality check, so look at recent work and ask past customers.

Get a quote that says what's included

Jersey Trading Standards explains that a quotation is a fixed, legally binding price, while an estimate is a guess. Ask for a written quotation that lists the rooms or walls, the preparation, the paint and how many coats, so you're comparing like with like. The Supply of Goods and Services \(Jersey\) Law 2009 requires the work to be done with reasonable care and skill.

Listings are free and in alphabetical order. Jersey Web is not connected with these businesses unless a listing says so: check details with each business before you book. Guidance checked 1 October 2026.
