Choosing IT support for a small Jersey business

Questions to ask an IT firm

The UK National Cyber Security Centre's guide for small organisations points to a few things worth asking any IT provider about:

- Backups: how all the data your business needs is backed up, whether there is a copy online and one on a separate device, and how a restore is tested.
- Sign-in: whether accounts use passkeys or strong passwords with 2-step verification, and how accounts for former staff, suppliers or contractors are removed.
- Incidents: what they do if something goes wrong, and how quickly. The Jersey Cyber Security Centre says to contact your IT team first if you think you have had an incident.

Free help from the Jersey Cyber Security Centre

The Jersey Cyber Security Centre (JCSC) gives free, confidential advice. It is not a regulator or the police. For local organisations it offers free advice sessions, security alerts and the free Jersey Cyber Shield, which includes vulnerability advice and a suspicious email reporting service.

Its free Cyber Health Check is aimed at organisations new to cyber security and helps them work towards Cyber Essentials. Places are limited, with preference for small businesses and registered charities.

Reporting a cyber attack

You can report an incident to the JCSC at incidentreports@jcsc.je or through its online form, and phishing emails to phishing@jcsc.je. Reporting is voluntary. If your own network may be compromised, phone 01534 500050 instead.

Data breaches must be reported within 72 hours

Under the Data Protection (Jersey) Law 2018, if a breach of personal data could put people's rights and freedoms at risk, you must tell the Jersey Office of the Information Commissioner without undue delay and, where feasible, within 72 hours of becoming aware of it. If the risk to people is high, you must tell them too.

You must also keep a log of every breach, including those you don't report. The JOIC's advice when in doubt is to report it.

Cyber Essentials

Cyber Essentials is available to Jersey businesses through IASME's certification bodies, and a certificate lasts 12 months. When we checked, it cost £320 plus VAT for a micro business (up to 9 staff) and £440 plus VAT for a small one (10 to 49 staff).

gov.je says suppliers on Government of Jersey contracts worth more than £25,000 must show Cyber Essentials or an equivalent standard.

Business broadband and phones

The Jersey Competition Regulatory Authority regulates telecoms. Its consumer guide names Coop Mobile, HomeNet, JT, Starlink and Sure as providers you can choose from. JT and Sure both sell business broadband.

Listings are free and in alphabetical order. Jersey Web is not connected with these businesses unless a listing says so: check details with each business before you book. Guidance checked 14 November 2026.
