What to check before you book

Physios, chiropractors and osteopaths must be registered

Under the Health Care (Registration) (Jersey) Law 1995, physiotherapy, chiropractic and osteopathy are registrable occupations. Working in one without being registered is an offence, and so is using a title or initials that suggest you are registered or qualified when you aren't.

For each profession, the qualification Jersey requires is entry on the matching UK register: the HCPC for physiotherapists, the General Chiropractic Council for chiropractors and the General Osteopathic Council for osteopaths.

How to check a practitioner

Search the Jersey register first, then the UK one for their profession:

- Jersey Care Commission register, by name or registration number
- HCPC register for physiotherapists
- General Chiropractic Council for chiropractors
- General Osteopathic Council for osteopaths

Physiotherapy through the hospital

gov.je says your GP may refer you for physiotherapy, or to the hospital's Trauma and Orthopaedics department, which can also refer you. You can't book a Trauma and Orthopaedics appointment yourself. Private clinics like those listed here take bookings directly.

Sports massage

For sports massage, ask about the therapist's training and insurance. If you have an injury or ongoing pain, a registered physiotherapist, chiropractor or osteopath can assess it.

Listings are free and in alphabetical order. Jersey Web is not connected with these businesses unless a listing says so: check details with each business before you book. Guidance checked 14 November 2026.
