What to know about Jersey pubs

Opening hours

Under the Licensing (Jersey) Law 1974, a pub with the usual taverner's licence can open from 9am to 11pm. On Sundays, Good Friday and Christmas Day, that's 11am to 11pm. On New Year's Eve, hours extend to 1am. These are the legal limits, and many pubs open for less, so check the pub's own website.

Children in pubs

The law says under-18s can't go into a room with a public bar. The exception is a child with an adult, who can stay until 9pm if the room is suitable for them. Pubs set their own policies too, so call ahead if you're bringing children.

You must be 18 to buy alcohol in a pub. An under-18 eating with an adult can be served wine, cider or beer with a meal, in an area set aside for meals.

Check the food hygiene rating

Businesses serving food in Jersey are scored under Eat Safe, with 0, 2, 3, 4 or 5 stars. The rating is about hygiene and food safety rather than how good the food is. They must display it, and you can search the Eat Safe ratings list by name or parish. A business that isn't listed hasn't yet been inspected and scored.

Gardens, views and families

Here's what some pubs say about themselves on their own websites:

- The Priory Inn, St Mary: a decked beer garden with countryside and sunset views in summer.
- Trinity Arms, Trinity: a garden with outside booths, a fire pit and a kids' play area.
- The Tenby, St Brelade: looks out over the water.
- Le Hocq Inn, St Clement: an upstairs function room with views out to sea.
- The Peirson, St Helier: outside seating that it says is popular in summer.

Smoking

Smoking is illegal in enclosed public places, including pubs, and both the smoker and the person in charge can be fined. If you want to smoke outside, ask the pub where you can.

The licensing law is changing

The States adopted a new Alcohol Licensing Law in March 2026, but we found no official start date. The 1974 rules on this page still apply until it comes into force.
