What to know about eating out in Jersey

Michelin

Michelin's Jersey page, updated on 27 March 2026, shows Bohemia in St Helier as starred. The same page also picks out Mark Jordan at the Beach, Oyster Box and Samphire, among others, without a star.

By the sea and seafood

Here's what some restaurants say on their own websites:

- Oyster Box, St Brelade's Bay: seafood, Jersey Rock oysters, sea views and a terrace.
- Green Island, St Clement: seafood by the beach. It says you need a reservation, and that it prefers bookings by phone.
- Mark Jordan at the Beach: views over St Aubin's Bay and two AA Rosettes.
- Corbière Phare, on the west coast: views of the Atlantic and La Corbière lighthouse. It takes bookings by phone.
- The Boat House, St Aubin: harbourside, with a terrace and a children's menu.

Check the food hygiene rating

Food businesses are rated under Eat Safe, on a scale of 0, 2, 3, 4 or 5, and there's no 1. It covers hygiene and food safety, not how good the food is. Restaurants must display their rating, and you can search the ratings by name or parish. A business that isn't listed hasn't been inspected and scored yet.

If you have an allergy

Tell the staff and ask. New food regulations were passed in March 2026, and the draft says restaurants must make allergen information available before you buy. When we checked, they weren't in force and no start date had been set.

GST, service charges and tips

Meals are standard-rated for GST at 5%. gov.je says GST applies to a service charge the restaurant adds, but not to a voluntary tip.

Can you just go for a drink?

Under the Licensing (Jersey) Law 1974, a restaurant licence is mainly for people having a meal. Someone who isn't eating can only be served if the place is mainly a restaurant, a waiter or waitress serves the drink, and they drink it at a table. The latest a restaurant can serve is 1am, but many close earlier.

Local food in season

Visit Jersey says Jersey Royals run from spring into early summer, peaking in May and June, and lobster runs from April to December. It's a tourism guide, so ask what's on the menu when you book.

Listings are free and in alphabetical order. Jersey Web is not connected with these businesses unless a listing says so: check details with each business before you book. Guidance checked 4 November 2026.
